UNIT 2: Health, social and environmental responsibility: Substance abuse

1. Substance abuse

We asked some learners what they thought substance abuse was.

Activity 1: What is substance abuse?

1. Discuss in your groups whether you think all the learners are correct. If not, which statements are incorrect and why?
 2. What other substances can you add to the ones these learners mentioned?

Substance abuse

Substance abuse means the abuse of both legal substances (alcohol or medicine) and illegal substances (drugs).

This includes cigarettes, alcohol and drugs. All the learners above are correct. Some of the substances they mentioned are legal and others are illegal, as you can see below.

1.1 Types of substance abuse

Legal substances

All the substances listed below are legal, although it is illegal for people under the age of 18 years to buy alcohol or cigarettes, or to use them in a public place, such as a bar.

- Medication supplied by doctors and pharmacists, for example antibiotics.
- Cough, cold, sleep and diet medications available without prescription in pharmacies.
- Caffeine, present in tea, coffee and cola drinks.
- Nicotine, present in cigarettes.
- Alcoholic drinks, for example beer, wine and brandy.

- Substances, such as glue, paint thinners and petrol, which are abused when sniffed to get 'high'.

Illegal substances

Illegal substances are substances that the government does not allow people to have, because they can be dangerous to people's health. You can get fined or go to jail if you are found taking illegal substances or even have them with you. It might seem as if it is enjoyable and "cool" to take them, but they are harmful, lead to addiction that is difficult, if not impossible to break, and in many cases, can cause death.

Most commonly used illegal substances in South Africa:

	Explanation	Effects
Dagga: 	• Is the dried leaves, stems, seeds and flowers of the cannabis plant. • The plants are grown in South Africa. • Usually smoked as a cigarette called "joint, zol, skyf or reefer", or through a broken bottle.	• Relaxed mood. • Reaction time. • Dangerous to drive or walk. • Heart and lung diseases. • Men become infertile.
Mandrax (buttons, mandies , whites) 	• Sold as tablets. • Users often crush the tablets, mix the powder with dagga and smoke the mixture.	• Relaxed and happy for few hours. • Feel weak. • Stomach pains. • Vomit.
Ecstasy (loz) 	• Popular at rave parties and night clubs. • Small children are often tricked into taking them, they look like sweets	• Lots of energy. • Coma and some times death. (Due to the reaction to with pictures on them.	the chemicals in the tablets).

Tik (methamphetamine or straw) 	Often used in the Western Cape	- Big “high”. - Easy to get addicted. - Intense and very aggressive mood swings. - Brain damage.
Cocaine (coke, snort) 	- White powder. - Very expensive, so many users turn to crime to pay for their addiction.	- Once over the ‘high’ user sinks into depression. - Heart and lung diseases. - Brain damage. - Death (overdose).
Heroin (called ‘H’) 	- Light –brown powder. - Children as young as 11 years old are being treated for heroin addiction.	- Extremely dangerous addictive. - Overdose of these drugs cause death.
Sugars	Is a heroin-based drug.
Nyaope	Is a mixture of dagga and heroin.
Plazana and Kwape	Other forms of heroin.

--	--	--

Activity 2: Talk about illegal drugs Date: _____

1. Which of these illegal drugs have you heard of?

2. Which ones are present in your area?

1.2 Symptoms of substance abuse (Physical and emotional changes)

Physical changes	Emotional changes
• Weight loss • Bad complexion • Circles under eyes • Red eyes • Skin rashes • Persistent cough • Constant tiredness • Dizzy spells • Shaky hands • Changes in sleep or eating patterns • Jerky body movements • Smell of alcohol or other drugs	• Mood swings from very happy to depressed • Spends more time alone • Changes in personality from energetic and outgoing to depressed and uncommunicative • Blames others for everything • Is totally focused on self • Has low self-esteem • Shows poor judgment

Changes at school and with others

- School marks drop.
- Often stays away from school.
- Has discipline problems at home and school.
- Often starts arguments and even physically abuses family members and friends.
- Starts a completely new style in clothes, jewelry and hair.
- Has new friends who refuse to meet you.
- Has an increased need for, and use of money.
- Lies, is secretive, makes and receives mysterious phone calls.
- Gives up hobbies or after-school activities such as sport.
- Steals valuables, alcohol or medication.

Activity 3: Identify the symptoms of substance abuse Date: _____

Read the following story about Debbie's friend Charmaine.

Charmaine has not been to netball practice for two weeks now. Her friend, Debbie, said she asked Charmaine if she was OK because she noticed she had dark rings under her eyes and looked very pale. Charmaine said she was OK, just not sleeping very well and that Debbie must leave her alone.

1. Identify the following changes that could possibly be due to substance abuse:

1.1 Two physical changes.

1.2 Two emotional changes.

1.3 Two changes at school and with friends.

1.3 Prevention measures

In 2002, the government launched the ke moja (I'm fine without drugs) awareness campaign. This programme aims for a balanced approach. It wants to reduce the supply of drugs through law enforcement and also makes prevention campaigns and rehabilitation available to drug abusers.

The Ke moja project assisted disadvantaged communities in the following ways:

- Access to treatment and rehabilitation.
- Alternative activities and skills.
- Poverty-alleviation programmes.
- Outreach drug-awareness programmes in schools.

- Involvement of teachers, social workers, traditional leaders and rural community members, doctors, nurses, caregivers and correctional services supervisors.

In 2011, the government came up with a five-year plan with an anti-substance abuse programme of action. These are some of the prevention measures they agreed on:

- Implement stricter laws to control the production, supply and use of alcohol.
- Increase the age at which people can legally buy or drink alcohol from 18 to 21.
- Limit the times and days of the week that alcohol can be legally sold.
- Reduce the number of liquor outlets, including shebeens, taverns and liquor stores, in specific areas. Make sure that no liquor outlets are located near schools, libraries and places of worship.
- Regulate and control home brews in rural areas.
- Have more campaigns that educate people, in particular young people, about the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.
- Implement harsher punishment for drug-related offences.
- Control the advertising of alcohol. The content of the advertising should not show alcohol as a product associated with sport, or social and economic status.
- Ban all sponsorship by the alcohol industry for sports, recreation, arts and cultural events.
- Supply a public health approach that provides for prevention, early detection, treatment, rehabilitation and after-care services for substance abusers.
- Make sure all young people are taught life skills in schools.
- Improve after-care services for children and young people.
- Use different approaches to prevention, for example programmes that target families, schools and youth- and sport-development programmes.

Activity 4: Discuss and analyse prevention measures

1. In your group, discuss these prevention measures.

Which measures are aimed at:

1.1 Preventing alcohol abuse among young people?

1.2 Preventing drug abuse among young people?

1.3 Controlling the advertising of alcohol?

1.4 Providing young people with an alternative to substance abuse?

2. In your community, which substances are abused?

3. Do you think any of the prevention measures above would help decrease substance abuse in your area?

Activity 5

UNIT 4: World of Work

Slogging your way through your schoolwork is not always fun and you might find yourself wondering whether the work is worth it. But education plays a key role in both finding and keeping a job and can open doors to higher-paying, more stimulating and rewarding careers.

- 1. Relationships between performance in school, subjects, interests and abilities

There is a direct link between the level of education you achieve and your likelihood of finding a job. Many jobs have minimum educational requirements, and without meeting these requirements, you won't get an interview.

Education isn't just a piece of paper. Time spent in school helps you master both basic and advanced skills. The longer you spend in academia, the better your writing, reading, comprehension and communication skills will become.

Writing, research and classes can also improve your computer skills, which are key in a competitive job market. You'll also become accustomed to interacting with a wide variety of people. These social skills can serve you well in the job search even if the job you want doesn't require a specific degree.

2. Informed decision of interests, abilities and potential

Interests

Interests are activities that you enjoy doing, for example:

- Reading books
- Debating
- Surfing the internet
- Sports
- Handicrafts
- Helping people in the community

TERM 2

UNIT 1: DEVELOPMENT OF THE SELF IN SOCIETY.

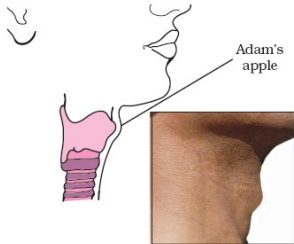

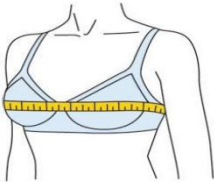

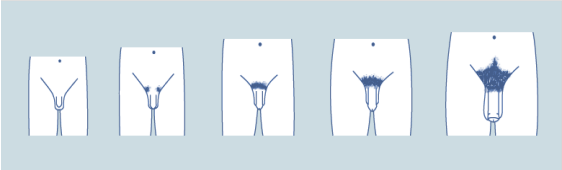

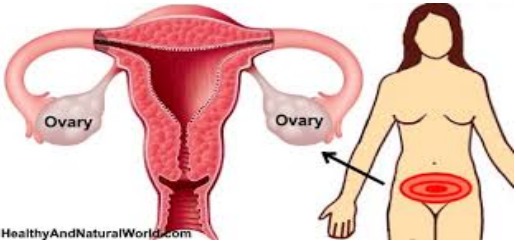

1. Changes in boys and girls during puberty

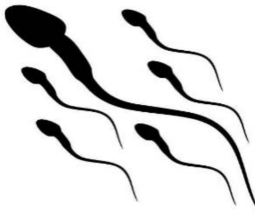

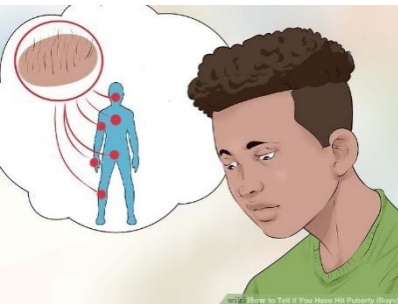

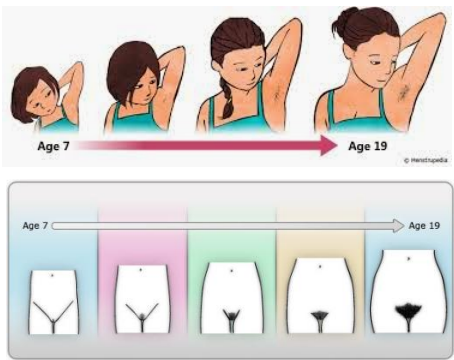

Puberty is the process that every child goes through to become a mature adult. During puberty your body changes and your feelings change. These physical and emotional changes are caused by hormones.

Your body starts to make hormones at the beginning of puberty. They affect the way your body develops and the way you feel. Whether you are a boy or a girl, you will have hormones acting on your body to turn you into an adult.

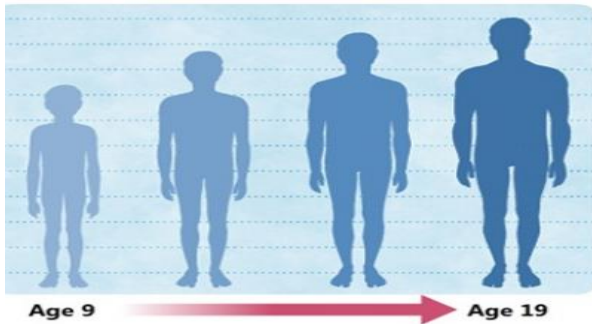

1.1 Physical changes in boys and girls

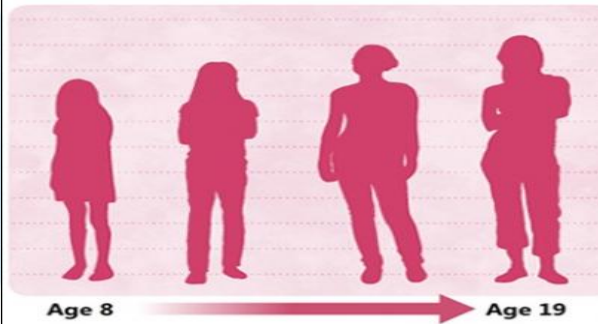

Boys	Girls
Voice gets deeper because the voice box gets larger and sticks out as an 'Adam's apple'.  The diagram shows a profile of a male head and neck with a pink larynx. A line points to the protrusion at the top of the larynx, labeled 'Adam's apple'. Below the diagram is a close-up photograph of a person's neck showing the Adam's apple.	Hips and buttocks get larger and rounder and hip bones widen.  The diagram shows a person's lower torso with hands measuring the width of the hips. A small number '7' is visible on the hip bone. Below the diagram is the text '© Can Stock Photo'.
Shoulders and chest get bigger and wider.  The diagram shows a person's upper torso with a red measuring tape around the chest, indicating growth in width.	Breasts develop.  The diagram shows a person's upper torso with a yellow measuring tape around the chest, indicating breast development.
Penis and testicles get bigger and erections start taking place. AGE 9 —————→ AGE 19  The diagram shows five stages of penis development from age 9 to age 19, illustrating the progression from a small, undeveloped state to a larger, more developed state.	Ovaries begin producing oestrogen.  The diagram shows a female reproductive system with labels for 'Ovary' and 'Ovary'. It also shows a female figure with a red circle on the lower abdomen, indicating the location of the ovaries. The text 'HealthyAndNaturalWorld.com' is visible at the bottom left.

Pimples may start as skin gets oilier. 	Pimples may start appearing as skin gets oilier.
Hormones act on testes (testicles) to begin producing sperm (needed for making babies). 	Menstruation starts as the ovaries start releasing eggs.
Sweating increases. 	Sweating increases.
Hair grows around the penis, under the arms, on the face, on the chests and the legs too. 	Hair grows around the vagina and under arms.

- Grow taller.

2. Employee:

As an employee (worker), it is your responsibility to:

- Read the workplace health and safety poster at the jobsite.
- Comply with all applicable health and safety standards.
- Follow all lawful employer health and safety rules and regulations, and wear or use required protective equipment while working.

As a worker, you have a legal right to:

- A safe and healthy workplace
- Any information your employer has about any exposure you may get to hazards such as toxic chemicals or noise.
- You also have a right to any medical records your employer has concerning you.
- To ask your employer to correct dangerous conditions.
- To file a complaint about workplace hazards
- To participate in enforcement inspections.
- To not be discriminated against for exercising your health and safety rights. Your employer may not fire you, threaten you, harass you, or treat you differently for exercising your health and safety rights.
- To information from your employer about health and safety standards, worker injuries and illnesses, job hazards and workers' rights.

Importance of ethics in the work environment

Your good work ethic tells future employers what they might expect from you on the job. But did you know it can also set you up for success? A good work ethic can be the determining factor in just how well you'll do in school –and in life.

Here are five components to a good work ethic and just why they're so important to you and your future:

Attendance and punctuality:

Whether in school or work, you learn and accomplish most when you show up, on time and prepared. You can't learn if you're not there! And when you come late, it's unlikely that you're really ready to do your best work. Good attendance and punctuality are two important pieces of a good work ethic –and they're easily addressed and accomplished.

Goal Setting:

Before you can accomplish your goals, you need to know what they are. People with good work ethics are goal-oriented and dedicated to achieving the success they envision. They understand that there are many steps to success and they're willing to take them all.

Hard work:

At the foundation of a good work ethic is a whole lot of hard work. In school, it may mean staying after for extra help from your instructor or fine-tuning your assignments to reach perfection. At work, you may want to come in a little early or stay late so you do the best job you can.

Positive Attitude:

Your positive attitude can set you apart from your peers –and it can be infectious, spilling over to other employees and making you welcome on any work project. Approaching every task—big and small—with a good attitude shows that you're a team player dedicated to not just your own success, but also to the success of your company.

Accomplishment:

The more you accomplish, the more likely you will be the person chosen for further advancement. Your good work ethic is likely to be recognized, acknowledged and rewarded and can serve as a building block to your future success.

TERM 3

UNIT 1: Development of the self in society

Peer pressure: The effects of peer pressure

Peer pressure takes place when people your own age force or influence you to behave in a certain way. You need to feel that you belong and need to feel accepted and be part of your peer group.

Peer pressure can influence you to do negative things such as:

- Use alcohol and drugs

- Commit crimes
- Unhealthy sexual behaviour
- Bullying other learners
- Behaving rebellious
- Disrespecting others
- Bunking school
- Not participating in school activities

If someone is asking you to do something wrong, they might say things such as:

- Everyone does it.
- No one will know.
- Who's going to find out?
- Go on, I dare you!

Date: _____

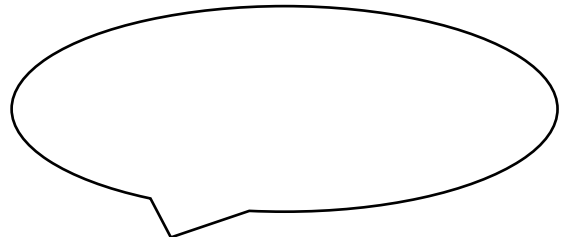

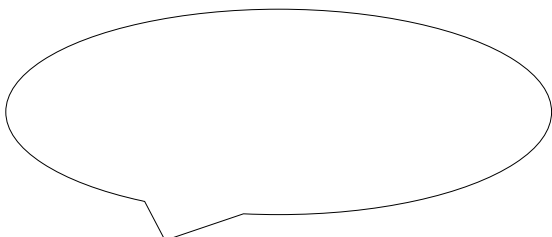

Look at the comic strip and answer the questions that follow.

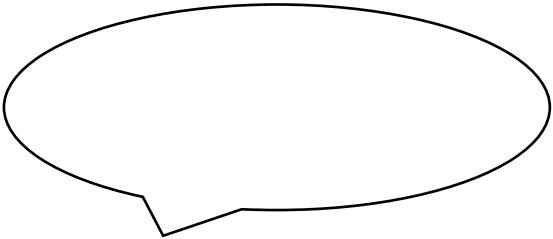

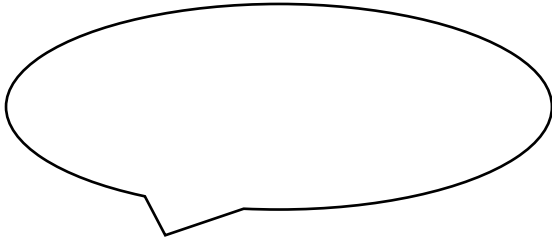

1. What negative behaviour is the girl in danger of becoming involved in because of peer pressure?

2. Explain your answer.

3. Draw the next frames of the comic strip to show what would happen if the girl was negatively influenced by peer pressure.

4. Draw the next frames to illustrate what the girl could do or say to avoid giving in to peer pressure.

---	--

5. Peer pressure can influence you to do negative things such as:

- a. _____
- b. _____
- c. _____
- d. _____
- e. _____

f. _____

Learn appropriate responses to peer pressure

As a young person you are likely to experience peer pressure. There are a number of ways to respond to peer pressure that will help you.

1. Assertiveness

- To stand up for yourself and your choices.
- Don't let anyone force you to do things you don't want to do.
- Know and understand yourself and what you feel comfortable with.
- Express your opinions clearly, calmly and confidently.
- Ignore social pressures and do what you believe is right.

2. Coping with peer pressure

(To be able to manage difficult situations such as peer pressure.)

- Pretend you have not heard and walk away.
- Say, "Everybody's different, even you"
- Suggest a better idea.
- Laugh. "I thought you said... You've got to be joking!" Then change the subject or leave.
- Make friends with peers who share your values.
- Avoid going to places where you might experience negative peer pressure such as nightclubs.
- Speak quickly and friendly.
- Make it clear that your mind is made up and that you do not want to talk about it anymore.

3. Negotiation skills

(Sometimes it is hard to say "no" to your friends. Here are some guidelines for disagreeing with a peer.)

- Do not be rude to the other person.

- Stay calm.
- Do not tell the other person what he or she should or should not do.
- Do not shout.
- Say you want to stay friends, but cannot agree to whatever the friend is asking you to do.
- Think about the disagreement and how you feel about it.
- Take turns to talk and listen to each other's point of view.
- Think of a number of solutions.

4. Where to find help

Advice from MaryDear Unsure

Some of the girls in my group often bunk school and go to the shopping mall instead. They want me to go with them. I'm scared someone I know will see me there and tell my parents and also that I will miss lessons and do badly in tests. I don't want to lose my friends. What should I do?

Unsure

Dear Mary

It is hard to be the only one who says no to peer pressure but you need to think about what will be best for you. Pay attention to your own feelings and beliefs about what is right and wrong. Speak to the girls in the group individually about the situation. You might find someone else who does not feel good about missing lessons. It makes it easier if there are two of you who can stand up to the rest of the group. Friends with values similar to yours will back you up when you don't want to do something.

Date: _____

Read the following article from the "Now Teen Magazine" and answer the questions.

1. Explain "Unsure's" situation with her friends.

2. Why is she scared?

3. What advice does Mary give to "Unsure"?

4. What advice can you give to "Unsure"?

5. Name 3 negotiation skills that “Unsure” can apply in her situation.

6. Name 3 Coping skills she can use in her situation.

7. Name 2 ways how she can be more assertive in her situation.

UNIT 2

Constitutional rights and responsibilities

People and places:

Where people live

People choose to settle in places that typically revolve around economic reasons such as quality of housing and cost of living. Good living conditions is one of the most important factors in people’s lives.

People live in many different types of places and homes. The key things that matter to people include a mix of housing cost, being close to family, being close to where they work, and have basic services needed in the community.

There are two types of settlements where people live:

1. Rural

Rural areas are areas which are not towns or cities. They are often farming or agricultural areas. A rural area population density is very low.

2. Urban

An urban settlement is a densely populated area that has mostly man-made structures that contain all of a society's administrative, cultural, residential and religious functions.

People live in different types of housing.

- Terraced house
- Detached house
- Caravan
- Flats
- Shack
- Huts

Basic services needed in a community

The most important local government duties include providing basic services such as:

- Housing
- Education
- Health care
- Social welfare
- Transport
- Electricity
- Water
- Sanitation and refuse

Community:

Is a group of people who are connected to each other by where they live or the interests they have.

Other types of community services include:

- School
- Hospital
- Church
- Bank
- Post office
- Police station
- Library
- Super markets
- Gas station
- Pharmacies

Activity 2.1

Date: _____

Answer the following questions.

1. Write the place in the community described by each sentence.

a. We go to this place when we are sick.

b. We go to this place to buy fresh fruits and vegetables.

c. Where we learn how to read and count numbers.

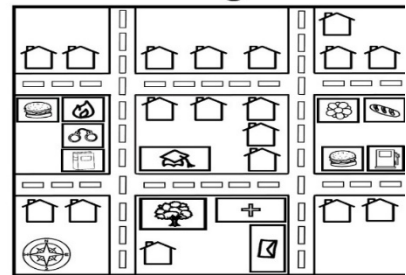

d. Letters are mailed in this place.

2. What makes you feel part of your community?

3. Draw a map of your neighbourhood.

a. Use the following key pictures in your map.

b. Look at the map examples below.

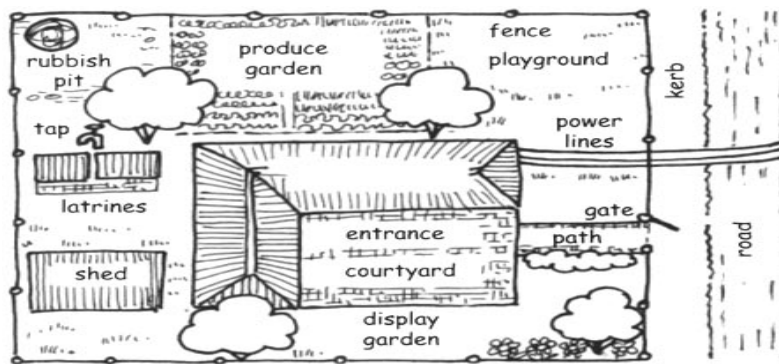

Key

- home
- florist
- fire station
- cafe
- police station
- bakery
- gas station
- library
- park
- school
- hospital
- post

4. Draw a map of the school.

Look at the example below. Do not copy the example!

Landmarks, roads and footpaths

1. Landmark:

A landmark is a recognizable natural or artificial feature that helps you identify a location or the boundary of a piece of land.

Some landmarks in South Africa:

- Kruger National Park
- Table Mountain
- Robben Island
- Cradle of Humankind
- Gold Reef City
- Congo Caves
- Union Buildings
- Cape of Good Hope
- Hill brow
- Soweto Towers
- Voortrekker monument

Routes or ways on land between two places that have been paved or improved to allow travel for example: vehicles

3. Footpath:

A footpath is a path for people to walk along. They can be found in a wide variety of places, from the centre of cities, to farmland, to narrow mountain ridges

Personal diet and nutrition

Your personal diet is the food that you eat every day. A balanced diet is a diet that contains the proper proportions of carbohydrates, fats, proteins, vitamins, minerals and water necessary to maintain good health.

Factors that influence your choice of personal diet

- Social factors
 - You eat the foods that your family, peers and your community eat.
 - Social occasions such as family gatherings, visiting friends and community events tend to involve food (different foods will be chosen for different occasions).
- Economic factors
 - You eat the food that you and your family can afford to buy.
 - Unhealthy food choices are much cheaper than healthy ones.
 - However, if you choose carefully, you can usually find an inexpensive, healthy option. For example, foods such as oats, beans, carrots, and apples are reasonably priced and nutritious.
- Cultural factors
 - Your culture is the customs, beliefs and behaviour of the cultural group that you belong to. This may be based on where your family comes from, your religion and the traditions in your family or community.
 - Religions often have rules about what food may and may not be eaten.

Activity 3.1

1. Complete the following table.
 - a. Tick the appropriate columns.
 - b. Give an example of how each of these factors influences your choice of diet.

How much do the following factors influence your choice of diet?	A lot	To some extent	A little	Not at all	Examples
1. Social factors
2. Economic factors

3. Cultural factors

2. What kind of environment do you live in?

3. Where do you get your food from?

4. What do you think your economic situation is?

5. How does your environment and economic situation influence your food choices?

6. Write a list of unhealthy food choices you make. Then, next to each choice, list the healthy food choices you could make.

Healthy personal diet plan

Diet plan:

The use of specific intake of nutrition for health or weight-management reasons.

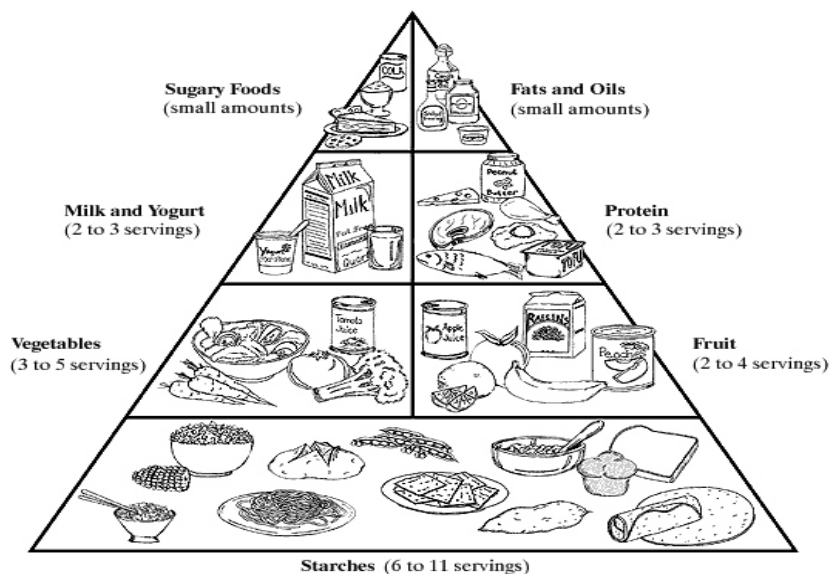

Importance of a healthy diet:

Nutrients are the chemicals in the food you eat. Nutrients help your body to grow and to maintain, protect and repair itself. If you improve the nutritional value of your personal diet, it means you eat healthier food that gives your body all the nutrition it needs.

The four basic food groups

When you eat the correct amounts of each food group every day, your body will get all the nutrients and energy it needs. Look at the following food pyramid that indicates the correct amount of each food group that you need to eat every day.

Savings

Personal savings:

When a person (other than a company or organization) saves money to spend or invest later.

Incomes (inputs):

Income is money that an individual or business receives in exchange for providing a good or service or through investing capital. Income is used to fund day-to-day expenditures. People aged 65 and under typically receive the majority of their income from a salary or wages earned from a job.

Different examples of income:

- Salary income
- Rental income
- Interest income

Expenses (outputs)

Expense is the money that something costs you or that you need to spend in order to do something.

For example:

- | | |
|----------------------------|------------------|
| 1. Accounting expenditures | 6. Travel costs |
| 2. Insurance costs | 7. School fees |
| 3. Legal fees | 8. Medical fees |
| 4. Property taxes | 9. Food expenses |
| 5. Entertainment costs | |

The purpose of savings

Saving money can help you become financially secure and provide a safety net in case of an emergency.

Here are a few reasons why we save:

- a new roof for your house
- out-of-pocket medical expenses
- sudden loss of income

Savings accounts

Allow you to keep your money in a safe place while it earns a small amount of interest each month. This depends on the bank and the type of account.

Activity 4.1

Identifying business people in the community.

Read the following information about the top 10 Business people in South Africa and answer the questions.

New World Wealth has released its list of the top 10 business people in South Africa's history.

Here are the 10 most successful business people in South Africa of all time.

1. Sol Kerzner

Sol Kerzner's impact on South Africa has been massive. Most of the top luxury hotels and resorts in the country were built by him. Some notables include: Sun City, the Lost City, Sandton Sun, the Beverley Hills Hotel, the Elangeni and the Beacon Island Hotel.

2. Donald Gordon

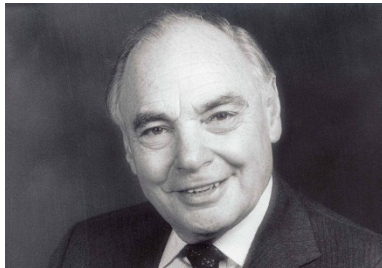

As the founder of Liberty Life, Donald Gordon will always be remembered for what surely remains his greatest achievement – the shopping center that set the benchmark for luxury and class worldwide.

The shopping center that the richest city in Africa is now built around the monolith, Sandton City.

3. Richard Maponya

Despite the many obstacles of the Apartheid government, Richard Maponya became a beacon of hope to the people of Soweto, starting several successful businesses in the area (predominantly in the retail and property space).

He recently helped to develop Maponya Mall, which is one of the largest shopping centers in the country.

4. Harry Oppenheimer

Harry Oppenheimer led South Africa's two biggest companies (De Beers and Anglo American) through their most successful years and created more jobs than any other South African businessman in history.

Harry Oppenheimer and his wife Bridget were also keen horse breeders. They bred Horse Chestnut, which is arguably the most exceptional race horse ever bred in South Africa. Chestnut was known for winning races by large margins – he won the J&B Met by over 8 lengths.

5. Pam Golding

Pam Golding formed Pam Golding Properties in 1976 and turned it into the largest estate agency in the country. Her company has since gone on to transform the luxury residential landscape in South Africa, especially in Cape Town's Atlantic Seaboard.

6. Adrian Gore

Adrian Gore founded Discovery Health in 1992. His company went on to change the health insurance space in SA forever with innovative products such as Vitality. Many insurance companies overseas have now begun to copy the Discovery model and Discovery themselves have taken their products abroad with good success.

7. Nthato Motlana

Dr. Nthato Motlana is 'the renaissance man' of South Africa, with successful careers in politics, medicine and business. He was the founder of NAIL and a mentor to many of the top business leaders in South Africa today. He is considered by many to be the father of economic empowerment in South Africa.

8. Patrice Motsepe

After a successful career as a lawyer at Bowman Gilfillan, Motsepe founded ARM (African Rainbow Minerals) in 1997 and turned it into one of the largest mining and mineral groups in the world.

9. Anton Rupert

Dr. Anton Rupert founded the Rembrandt Group in the 1940s. After initially focusing on the tobacco industry (Peter Stuyvesant), his company soon moved into industrials and luxury goods. Rembrandt has since been split into Remgro (an investment company with financial, mining and industrial interests) and Richemont (a Swiss-based luxury goods group).

Rupert was also a founding member of the WWF (World Wildlife Fund) in the 1960s. His son Johan has since turned Richemont into one of the largest luxury goods companies in the world.

10. Douw Steyn

Douw Steyn founded Auto & General Insurance in 1985 and turned it into one of the largest insurance companies in South Africa. He has since started similarly successful businesses in the UK (Compare the Market, Budget Insurance).

1. Write down the names of the top 10 business people in the article.

2. Who was the founder of NAIL?

3. In what year did Pam Golding form Pam Golding Properties?

4. Name the two biggest companies that Harry Oppenheimer led?

a. _____

b. _____

5. Name the businessman who helped to develop Maponya mall.

6. What do you know about Patrice Motsepe?

7. Fill in the missing words. Make use of the article.

a. Douw Steyn founded _____ in 1985 and turned it into one of the largest _____ companies in South Africa.

b. As the founder of Liberty Life, _____ will always be remembered for what surely remains his greatest achievement – the shopping center that set the _____ for luxury and class worldwide.

c. Adrian Gore founded _____ in _____. His company went on to change the _____ space in SA forever with innovative products such as Vitality.

d. _____ was also a founding member of the WWF (_____) in the 1960s. His son Johan has since turned _____ into one of the largest luxury goods companies in the world.

The Economy: Goods and services

Goods and Services

What are Goods?

- Goods are things that you can see and touch. They are the products you can purchase to meet your wants and needs.
- Goods are items that are tangible, such as pens, salt, apples, and hats.
- Goods are the material items that customers are ready to purchase for a price.

What are Services?

- Services are activities provided for the satisfaction of others that are consumed at the same time they are produced.
- You purchase and use services to satisfy your wants and needs, but unlike goods, businesses must provide services to you at the time you want to consume them.
- Services are activities provided by other people, who include doctors, lawn care workers, dentists, barbers, waiters, or online servers.

Date: _____

Read each scenario and tell whether you are purchasing goods or a service. Write the word good or service on each line.

1. You get your hair cut.	_____
2. You buy a book from a garage sale.	_____
3. You buy flowers from the shop.	_____
4. You hire someone to cut your lawn.	_____
5. You visit the doctor for a check-up.	_____
6. You purchase a game to give as a birthday gift.	_____

7. You buy an ice cream cone from an ice cream truck.

8. Give an example of someone purchasing a service. (Do not use an example form above)

9. Give an example of someone purchasing goods. (Do not use an example form above)

What are Needs?

Needs are things that are required in order to live. Everyone needs food, water, clean air, clothing, and shelter. Other needs in today's economy are a good education, a good job, and safety. Most people need transportation to and from school and work. People who have health problems need health care and medicines.

What are Wants?

Wants are things that add comfort and pleasure to your life. You may believe you can't live without name brand jeans and the latest cell phone technology, but you can, and many people do. A small apartment provides needed shelter, but many people want a large apartment or a house. Public transportation is available in many cities, but a late-model luxury car might provide a driver with an image of success

Want:

Recycle and re-use goods.

Recycle

Many items can be put through a process so they can be used again or changed into another item. The items you are recycling need to be cleaned and flattened so that they take up less space.

What can we recycle?

- Paper and cardboard
- Plastic bottles and containers
- Glass bottles and jars
- Polystyrene
- Tins and cans
- Fruit and vegetables (compost)

How to recycle:

- Separate containers of bags for compost.
- Separate recyclable and non-recyclable items.
- Visit the following website:

<http://treevolution.co.za/guide-to-recycling-in-sa/where-to-take-recyclables>

Home recycling materials

- Newspapers
- Magazines
- Cardboard
- Boxes
- Glass (separate it according to colour)
- Cans

Re-use goods

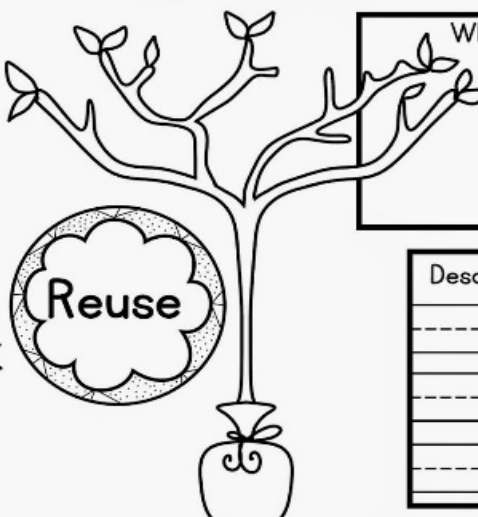

- Avoid using things only once – use plastic plates rather than paper plates
- Take your own bags to the shop
- Containers, bottles, jars can be used to store things in, or as vases, etc.

Some people are very creative and re-use materials such as bottle tops, tins, etc.

UNIT 2: Health, social and environmental responsibilitiesEnvironmental Health

Environmental health's are those aspects of a person's health that include quality of life, and the natural and built environment. No matter where we live, we will not be healthy unless our environment is healthy. Today, half the world's population live in cities where they cannot produce enough fuel, food and water to survive.

Activity 4Date: _____

Answer the following questions.

1. Explain environmental health.

2. What does it mean to be healthy?

3. Draw a diagram to illustrate what you understand by environmental health.

Local environmental health problems

1. Water pollution

Water that has been polluted by animal or human faeces/waste. Polluted water can cause water-borne diseases like Cholera. Water pollution affects the ocean, rivers, dams and lakes.

2. Mining

Is the process or business of removing minerals from the deeper layers of the earth. Mining activities can damage or destroy the environment by digging up or burying it under waste.

3. Sanitation problems

Inadequate sanitation is bad for the environment. If waste is not treated and disposed of properly, disease grows and spreads.

4. Climate changes and fossil fuels

When fossil fuels are used, they give off carbon dioxide which is greenhouse gas. Greenhouse gases trap the sun's heat in the atmosphere. This trapped heat causes global warming and climate change.

5. Damage to land

The more people there are on Earth, the more land is needed. Some habitats are damaged or destroyed by humans.

6. Deforestation

Forests affect the equality of water, soil and air. Water is filtered and cleaned as it passes through the tree roots and the plant life in forests hold the soil so that it absorbs large amounts of rain water. This groundwater feeds into rivers, streams and wells. Forests also prevents soil erosion. Half of the Earth's forests have been cut down either to make way for fields or for the wood.

Activity 5

Date: _____

Answer the following questions.

1. List 4 different threats to the health of our environment.

2. How are people affected?

3. Describe the causes of each problem.

4. Read the following Case study and answer the questions.

The clinic in the village of Mooiplaas, Eastern Cape, is always busy. Mothers bring babies and children with diarrhoea. Sometimes the children die.

In this village, people collect water from the Kwenxura River for drinking, cooking and washing. At this point, the river has passed through several villages already. It is polluted with germs. This is because many people use the bushes near the river to go to the toilet and the rain washes the waste into the river.

There are only 450 toilets in Mooiplaas for 35 000 people. Many of the toilets are a health hazard to use. There are communal taps in the village, but sometimes the water dries up. Also, people prefer the taste of the water from the river. Every time the village members drink water from the river, they are at risk of getting sick. This is because they take in germs with the water. People from non-governmental organisations are training people in the villages to teach the community about safe water and helping them to build proper toilets.

- 4.1 Identify as many ways as you can in which water can become polluted.

- 4.2 Explain why polluted water can cause environmental health problems.

- 4.3 Write your own definition of what an environmental health problem is.

Actions to solve an environmental health problem.

1. The first thing you need to do is to identify the problem you want to solve.
2. The next stage is to find out as much information as you can about the problem. This is the research stage.
3. The next thing you do is to identify the obstacles or difficulties you think you are going to have in solving the problem.
4. What can you do? Consider all possible solutions.
5. Choose the best solution with reasons.
6. Try out the solutions you think will work.

7. Evaluate the solutions. In other words, which solutions work, how well do they work and why?
8. Choose the best solution and put it into practice to solve the problem.
9. Think about the solution you have chosen. Could you improve it?

Activity 6Date: _____

Read about how learners at Hugenot Primary School in Tafelsig addressed an environmental health problem in their area.

Hugenot Primary School is close to the Wolfgat Nature Reserve, which borders on False Bay. The nature reserve is also close to the densely populated areas of Khayelitsha and Mitchell's Plain. The nature reserve is home to some unique species of plants and is the nesting area for some sea birds.

Learners from Hugenot Primary School visited the Wolfgat Nature Reserve, and noticed dumped rubbish in the nature reserve. They realised that the rubbish was causing a problem. Broken bottles were a danger for people walking in the reserve. Rotting rubbish was attracting rats and flies. The rubbish was making the reserve unattractive and unpleasant to visit, and harming the plants and animals living there. The learners decided to take action.

Answer the following questions:

1. How did learners of Hugenot Primary School identify the problem?

2. Why was it a problem?

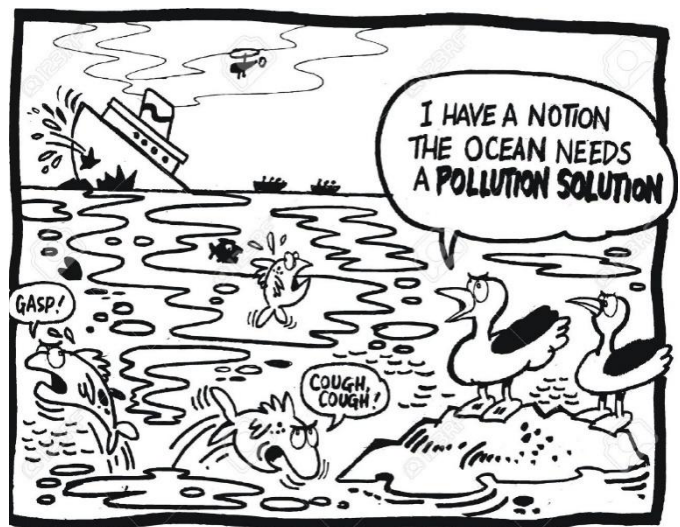

3. What difficulties could learners have in solving the problem?

4. Suggest at least two other ideas for solving the dumping problem.

UNIT 3: Constitutional rights and responsibilities

Dealing with abuse in different contexts

Any child is at risk of being abused by adults or by other children. You need to know what child abuse is so that you can protect yourself or help a friend.

Remember:

- All forms of abuse are wrong and are illegal
- Abuse is never the fault of the person who is being abused
- Bullying is a form of physical and / or emotional abuse and adults as well as children can be bullies.

Identifying risky and threatening situations

You need to be able to recognise dangerous situations to protect yourself. Often, people realise that they are in a risky situation when it is too late to do anything about it. You need to predict – or guess – what someone is about to do. If something feels wrong, it is wrong. Trust the voice inside you.

Some examples of risky and threatening situations are:

- Going to places alone at night;
- Accepting gifts from people you don't know;
- Sex without protection;
- Attending parties where you don't know the people;

- Acting impulsively; making decisions without thinking it through;
- Carrying out dares to be part of the crowd;
- Not telling anyone who you are dating or having a relationship with.
